From a desire to develop breakthrough technologies for water filtration and purification, researchers have developed membranes with artificial channels inspired by the proteins that form the pores ...

Artificial bio-inspired membranes for water filtration

Biomimetics or biomimicry is the imitation of the models, systems, and elements of nature for the purpose of solving complex human problems. The terms "biomimetics" and "biomimicry" derive from Ancient Greek: βίος (bios), life, and μίμησις (mimēsis), imitation, from μέσθαι (mēsthai), to imitate, from μίμος (mimos), actor. A closely related field is bionics.

Nowadays a lot of different subjects are classified in the "bio" area: from materials inspired by biological microstructures for high-tech applications, to artificial bio-compatible tissues, from the imitation of efficient movements of some animal species to the design of surfaces for superior biocompatibility and many more could be cited.

Emerging technologies are technologies that are perceived as capable of changing the status quo. These technologies are generally new but include older technologies that are still controversial and relatively undeveloped in potential, such as preimplantation genetic diagnosis and gene therapy which date to 1989 and 1990 respectively.. Emerging technologies are characterized by radical novelty ...
